engineered solutions

DPS Group is a global consulting, engineering and construction management company, serving high-tech industries around the world.

Our Values

The DPS culture is based on actions, not promises. We don't rest on past successes.

Dynamic

We have a passion and an underlying entrepreneurial spirit that drives us to seek out the best answers to the challenges we face.

Adaptable

We are innately a flexible and responsive organisation. We use this strength to seize new possibilities and help clients fulfil their potential.

Honest

We look at the relationship, not just the bottom line.

Human

We are a 'Work With' organisation of people who are keen to share their expertise through a positive, 'always can-do' attitude.

What sets us apart?

It is more than the 45+ years in which we've built our Process Engineering experience, our flexible 'can do' approach and client-first mentality.

It is greater than the range and scale of work we do or our global reach; it is about the highly-motivated, highly-qualified people at DPS who get to know you and become invaluable members of your team.

"Our expert teams always deliver lean bespoke solutions to our client needs"

Gerry Hamill, Executive Director
Business Development

"Over the past five years, we have more than doubled our turnover and employee numbers"

Brian Donohoe, Chief Operating Officer

Our people and progressive partnerships

At DPS, we're in the relationships business. We go beyond working as partners to become an integral part of your team.

It starts with our people. We ask the right questions to comprehensively understand your business and challenges.

Together we create better engineered solutions.

"DPS didn't just talk, they listened and probed. They lived and breathed our project. We'd never experienced this kind of effort and collaboration before, it felt like they were an extended part of our organisation."

Many of our client relationships go back over 35 years

Frank Keogh, Chief Executive Officer

"We chose DPS Group because of their unparalleled experience in process manufacturing design in North America and Europe"

Our innovation and expertise

Great solutions that are just right for you don't come from simply listening; they need creative thinking.

We constantly innovate and push boundaries to add value. We pride ourselves on leading, not following.

We take original ideas and make them actionable, shaping them with our experience into tangible value for you.

Our power and purpose is in forging solutions designed to help organisations leap forward.

"DPS Group brought a tremendous depth of cGMP facility design experience to an ambitious project, and their laboratory and workplace design expertise helped us to create an innovative work environment for our employees."

Delivering more together

Together, we can make a real difference.

With our collaborative thinking, passion and focus on results, we reduce risks, raise standards in best practice, save you time and increase efficiency and profitability.

Our decision making is focused on you and the successful delivery of your project.

By sharing our expertise and knowledge we can guide you through your most complex challenges, to meet your ambitions and enhance value.

“DPS gave us a level of added value that we hadn’t anticipated. Feedback from employees to our board has been overwhelmingly positive and the benefits of their approach and solution can be seen every day.”

“Our team of engineering professionals continually drive themselves to find the right solutions for our clients’ needs.”

Aidan O’Dwyer, President, US Project Operations

We are strategically located to support our client's global requirements.

We are ready with our industry experts, world-class resources and the latest innovative approaches for your next project.
